

Brayden McMahon is a Computer Science Major and is interested in networking and cybersecurity. My projects have included crafting custom packets with python and log analysis with wire shark. Other projects include java projects of varying degree's. For this project I aim to learn how a large scale desktop application with a database functions.

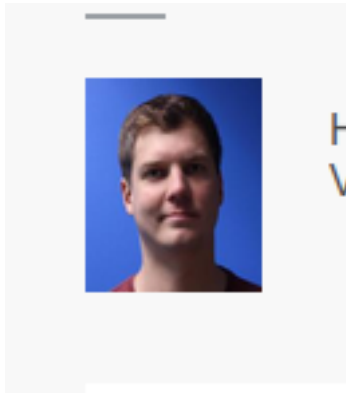

Figure 1: photo